The Persian People Are Dissatisfied with the Reforms Which He Contemplates.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Vienna, Dec. 6.—The Tagblatt states that the Shah of Persia has created almost a revolution by reducing his harem from eleven hundred concubines to sixty of his favorites. The leading men of the country are much exercised over the situation.

Visited Europe The Shah recently returned from Europe where he visited in London and other capitals. On his return to the country he inaugurated many reforms not popular with the people and this last move has thoroughly aroused them as many have daughters in his harem.

WOMEN VOTED FOR DEMOCRATS

Mathie Received the Majority of the Feminine Votes of the State.

(Special to The Gazette.) Madison, Wis., Dec. 6.—Between 23,000 and 24,000 Wisconsin women exercised their first right to vote for a state officer at the recent election. The majority of them voted the democratic ticket—for Mathie for school superintendent, the one office for which they were entitled to vote. Governor LaFollette ran but 345 votes behind the average for the whole republican ticket, in total votes cast, but was from 1,500 to nearly 12,000 behind all the others in plurality. Rose ran more than 10,000 votes ahead of nearly all the other democratic candidates. This is explained by the peculiar fact that the vote for governor is 9,381 greater than the average vote for all other officers except school superintendent. One explanation of this is that many voters thought that when they put a cross under the candidate for governor they were voting the whole party ticket.

BANQUET GIVEN BY THE SENIORS

IN HONOR OF THE CHAMPIONSHIP FOOTBALL TEAM.

AN ELABORATE SOCIAL EVENT

Elegant Spread, Clever Toasts, Handsome Decorations, and Dancing, Contribute to the Pleasure.

Few society events given by adults experienced in the art of entertaining have equalled, for artistic ideas and perfect appointments, the reception, banquet and dancing party given by the members of the Senior class last evening in honor of the members of the class football team.

The party was given in East Side Odd Fellows hall, the guests of honor being the members of the football team, Supt. and Mrs. H. C. Buell, Rev. and Mrs. Robert C. Denison, Athletic Coach William Norris and the other members of the High school faculty, together with the wives of the married gentlemen teachers, and Miss Dell Miltimore, clerk at the High school.

Reception First
The reception began promptly at six o'clock, the guests being received by Stow Lovejoy, president of the class and the general arrangement committee, which also served as the reception committee for the class. The members of the committee were Kramer Doty, Elisabeth McKee, Harold Hall, Josephine Fenton and Harry Doran.

Artistic Decorations
The guests were received in the large dance hall in which the decorations were uniquely attractive. Purple and white, the class colors, were predominant, the contrasting colors lending themselves effectively to the beautifying of the room. The reception committee stood beneath a drape of purple and white in corner which oriental draperies and rugs made into an attractive retreat. The railing to the orchestra stand was concealed under graceful loopings of the same colors and between the two central chandeliers was festooned a rope of immense purple and white chrysanthemums. Under each chandelier was a football, partially concealed by a pretty arrangement of bunting and paper flowers.

Large Mirrors Used
One of the most charming decorative effects was given by the use of several large mirrors were hung on the walls, their frames being draped with the class colors. Especially effective was an oval one in a black frame against a background of purple and white beneath which was stretched a handsome oriental rug, ornamenting the east wall of the room. This end of the room was cosy with oddly draped settees, couches and chairs, sofa pillows being used in abundance and it was here that the trophy stood in honor when it was transferred from the banquet hall at the close of the toast.

Choice Cut Flowers
There were many other cosy corners in the room, all of them being original in their arrangement and very artistic. A large bouquet of white carnations, sent to the class with the compliments of Mrs. George M. McKee, and a bunch of white roses added dainty touches of beauty to the scene. The credit for the entire decorative scheme and its execution belongs largely to Harold Hall, whose artistic taste makes him an invaluable chairman of a decorating committee. His efficient helpers were Clara Schumacher, Mary Roberts, Stow Lovejoy and Winifred Field.

In Purple and White
Purple and white formed the color scheme in the dining room where the banquet was served at seven o'clock. At one end of the room stood the Denison trophy on which the name of the class of 1903 had been freshly engraved. The handsome silver cup stood on a pedestal concealed beneath white crepe paper, richly decorated in purple and tied with long streamers of purple and white ribbon. A unique decorative effect was the looping of a tennis net along one wall, purple bunting and purple and white chrysanthemums being entwined in its meshes.

Strewn With Violets
The long tables, daintily spread, were strewn with fragrant English violets and lighted by purple shaded candles in silver candelabra. Additional dashes of the class colors by the plates of cream patties, which formed the final course of the banquet, by the decorated napkins and by the ribbons which tied the menu and toast cards.

Appropriate Souvenirs
These cards were especially pretty being in the shape of a football, the covers being painted brown and bearing the figures 1903. On the outside white leaves the menu and the program of toasts was written in purple ink. The cards which were cleverly artistic, were the handiwork of Miss Evelyn Packer.

A Royal Feast
The banquet was an elaborate affair in six courses, all of which were prettily and daintily served. Covers were laid for about one hundred people. The quality of the spread was excellent and the following was the menu.

Menu
Bouillon
Roast Turkey Cranberry Jelly
Creamed Potatoes Rolls
Pickles Olives
Fruit Salad Wafers
Salted Almonds
Pineapple Ice
White Cake Chocolate Cookies

Coffee Confections
Sophomore Waiters
The service was excellent, no tables being waited on prettily by a committee of Sophomores under the supervision of Miss Libbie Trenwith, the caterer. Under the classmen who served were Lucy Fox, Roberta Keller, Edna Murdoch, Ethel Field, Laura Marshall, Annie Smith, Grace

Winteroth, John Galbraith, George Caldwell, Harvey Bailey, Ray Ladden and Chester Morse.

The Postprandial
After the supper came the toasts, Harold Hall presiding as toastmaster and introducing the speakers very happily. Cordial words of greeting expressed in well chosen words, were spoken prettily by Irma Keller, vice-president of the class and Pliny Wilbur, captain of the football team, gave an amusing response, which the class heartily enjoyed.

An Inspiring Talk
Rev. Robert C. Denison, donor of the championship trophy, was on the program for remarks and after speaking humorously for a few minutes he said he had one serious thought that he wished to leave with the class. As they went forth from the school he hoped they would take with them the true spirit of American citizenship. The three elements of the spirit which he wished to emphasize were hatred of shams, true democracy and continued interest in the American public schools. He extended congratulations to the class and to the team.

Toasted the Team
Miss Josephine Fenton toasted the Senior football team, her eulogy of the champions being written after the style of "Hawatha." This response was greatly appreciated by the Seniors.

A Unique Response
H. C. Buell interpreted the subject given him, "Spelling Contests" very cleverly, giving a list of the words which the Seniors had shown that they knew how to spell, the list including chief of all the word hospitality. The toast occasioned a great deal of amusement.

Responses and the Yell
Athletic Coach William Norris toasted the Seniors, speaking words of praise for the class, for the team and especially for the girls for their class spirit and their attitude toward the school.

He was followed by Charles Galbraith whose praise of the charms of the Senior girls was neatly chosen and happily expressed. The post-prandial program concluded with the class yell heartily given.

The Joyous Dance
At nine o'clock dancing began for the merry company of young people, excellent music being furnished by the orchestra from the State School for the Blind. The entire affair was a perfect success and much credit is due the class and its committees. Besides those already mentioned, arrangements were perfected by the following:

Some of the Committees
Banquet committee—Elisabeth McKee, Alma Brickson, Irma Keller and Alice Harper.
Floral committee—Josephine Fenton, Helen Estes, Laurence Doty and John Harlow.
Finance committee—Harry Doran, Verne Murdoch and Mame Curtiss.

CLOCK CHANGED; STRIKER READY

Walter J. Buckley Completes His Work on the New City Hall Clock Today.

After yesterday afternoon there will be no excuse for anyone about the city saying that did not know the time as their attention will be called to it many times during the day by the city hall clock and striker. Walter J. Buckley, representing the Seth Thomas Clock company, has been all the week making the change in clocks and will complete the work today so that the clock will be in running order.

The new clock is considerably larger than the old one, and in addition to the striking apparatus, has an electrical cutoff which turns on and shuts off the lights behind the clock dials at any hour desired. This is a new apparatus and was put in by the clock company without extra charge, although it was not in the contract regarding the change. The cutoff does away with the necessity of turning on the lights every night and shutting them off in the morning. It will also do away with the chance of having the lights burn all day, by the janitor forgetting to turn them off. The new bell weights 1,000 pounds and is hung in the top of the tower directly over the clock. There is a floor underneath it and a ceiling will be placed above it and that the entire value of sound will be thrown out through the openings in the sides of the tower. One side of the bell bears the words, City of Janesville, Seth Thomas Clock company, New York, in raised letters. The bell has a fine tone and is loud enough to be heard all over the city.

CITY OFFICIALS EXAMINE RECORDS

Clerk Erb and Superintendent Smith of Columbus, Investigate Railway Franchises Granted Here.

Messrs. John Erb, city clerk, and W. E. Smith, superintendent of water works and electric light plant at Columbus, Wisconsin, are in the city today engaged in looking over the records of the city clerk's office in regard to franchises granted by this city to the electric roads.

The proposed interurban road from Madison to Fond du Lac takes in Columbus and a franchise is asked for. Columbus owns its water works and electric lighting plant and wish to protect them as fully as possible from any damage before granting a franchise to the interurban road. They are making a visit to several cities that have electric lines and making a careful inspection of the franchises granted in order to embody in theirs all the necessary safeguards for the protection of their water works, and lighting plants.

HOHENADEL, JR., BUYS MANY SHEEP

Will Use Silage from the Canning Factory to Fatten Them During Winter.

P. Hohenadel, Jr., returned from Chicago this morning, where he purchased between twelve and thirteen head of sheep. Two carloads will be placed on the Hughes farm south of the city and three carloads on the Benis farm, both of which farms are rented by the P. Hohenadel, Jr., Co. It is Mr. Hohenadel's intention to use the residue from the sweet corn purchased by the canning factory this fall to feed the sheep. The husks and other silage from the factory makes the finest kind of fodder for sheep and cattle.

There is an immense amount of this feed at the factory which would go to waste and it will be utilized this winter in fattening their large flock of sheep and getting them in shape for the market.

JANESVILLE GIRL WEDS IN MICHIGAN

Miss Louisa Conover, Formerly of This City, Is Now Mrs. Thomas J. Butler.

Cards have been received in the city announcing the marriage of Miss Louisa Conover and Thomas Jefferson Butler, the happy event having taken place at Detroit, Mich., last Tuesday, Dec. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Butler will reside in Detroit, being at home to their friends after December 15. The bride has many friends in this city where she resided for three or four years, her father, Rev. J. F. Conover, having been rector of Trinity Episcopal church. Janesville friends will extend congratulations and best wishes.

MRS. HARRIET JUDD HAS PASSED AWAY

Death Came to a Former Resident of This City in Freeport, Illinois.

Mrs. Harriet J. Judd, widow of the late Dr. Frederick H. Judd, and for many years a resident of this city, died in Freeport, Ill., on the twentieth of November. Her death occurred in the morning at 8:45 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Mitchell, with whom she made her home.

Mrs. Judd was eighty-six years of age, having been born November 18, 1816. She was a woman of lovely character and several years ago she was one of the most prominent in this city. Deceased was the mother of the late Dr. Thor Judd and she leaves one son, Dr. Leon Ardo D. Judd, of Philadelphia, and two daughters, Mrs. John H. Kinney, of Chicago, and Mrs. Phil Mitchell, of Freeport, Ill. Mrs. Mitchell and her sons have recently returned from a European trip.

TEAM WILL NOT GO ON WESETERN TRIP

University of Wisconsin Eleven Will Stay at Home Christmas Owing to Changed Schedule.

Manager Kilpatrick announced to the University of Wisconsin football squad last evening that there will be no western trip this Christmas. The team will at once break training. The decision was reached after President Birge's refusal to allow a game with the Parris Indians. He believed that even a team of that standing might be able to defeat Wisconsin, and it would be lowering the varsity record. The University of California had already cancelled their game on the ground that it would offer no comparison between the west and middle west. With these two games gone it would be impossible for Madison to meet expenses.

PROFITABLE PAPERS ON MEDICAL TOPICS

The Rock County Medical Association Meets at Myers House for Monthly Discussion.

A goodly number of the local disciples of Aesculapius met in the Myers House last evening to continue the series of discussions on obstetrical topics which has been inaugurated by the Rock County Medical association. Although the organization professes to embrace the county, all plans to make its scope actually so embracing have proved ineffectual. It is practically impossible for the doctors from the neighboring cities to attend the meetings which last for only a few hours in the evening. The consequence of the possible railroad connections offset the advantage to be derived from the discussion. But for the local physicians the topics have proved of great interest and advantage. The meeting last evening under the leadership of Dr. J. F. Pember was especially so. The subdivisions of the topic were presented by Drs. E. Field, Sutherland, Farnsworth and Palmer.

MANY OPENINGS FOR YOUNG MEN

PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN GIVE THEIR OPINIONS.

THE SOCIAL UNION CLUB MEET

Gathering at Y. M. C. A. Building Last Evening Was Largely Attended—Serve Supper.

No theme could have been chosen more pertinent and of more nearly universal interest to a club of young men than that which was discussed at the social union meeting last evening. Under the genial leadership of George S. Parker, the sub-topics chosen to illustrate business opportunities for young men were both thoroughly and interestingly discussed. Mr. Parker himself was especially happy in his introductory and explanatory speeches and so skillfully elicited general interest, debate, and brightened the evening by "pat" stories as to keep everyone in an excellent humor.

About one hundred and fifteen of the members of the club partook of the appetizing supper which had been prepared by the Woman's Auxiliary. Eight large tables had been set in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building, and there were but few vacant seats.

When the last vestiges of the supper had been cleared away and the men had pushed back their chairs and assumed comfortable positions, the leader, George S. Parker, called the meeting to order. Several matters of business were first disposed of. I. F. Wortendyke, chairman of the membership committee, announced that it had been decided to raise the membership maximum sufficiently to embrace those men now on the waiting list.

Dr. L. L. Leslie was elected to act as the leader of the next meeting. Began Program
"The Retail Merchant" was first discussed by H. L. McNamara. His suggestions to the young men were wholly practical. This is the age of commercialism and the merchant's trade has grown to such stupendous proportions that the man who is just entering on business life can have no hope of beginning near the top. The salesman who can see what his customers want and be attentive, courteous and obliging, always stands in line for promotion. Mr. McNamara rejoiced to see the growing interest which the colleges and universities are taking in a commercial training. The practical value of these courses time only will tell. Above all Mr. McNamara urged upon the young man unflinching industry.

As M. P. Richardson, the chairman of the program committee had just entered the room he was called upon to present the report of his committee before the next speaker was given the floor. The recommendation of the committee for the next four months' program was as follows:
January—Municipal Reform.
February—Capital and Labor.
March—Industrial and Commercial Conditions in Our Foreign Dependencies.

April—Janesville's Needs.
The club voted to accept the program as read.

The Newspaper.
H. H. Bliss then discussed "Business Opportunities Seen From the Newspaper Office." He depreciated the idea that any man, regardless of qualifications could fit capably into the work, but gave as his opinion that many men who are wasting their lives where they now are, could act successfully in a newspaper office, and vice versa. He detailed the qualifications necessary for the young men who hope to be successful in either the news or business department of the paper.

The leader next called for a general discussion of the views which had just been presented. In response to the appeal W. W. Watt and A. M. Valentine both spoke briefly; the former to point out the type of ability necessary for newspaper work; the latter to comment humorously on the newness and veracity of the paper which the two previous speakers represent.

George F. Kimball's paper entered into detailed analysis of the elements of manufacturing success with unusual poignancy. The advantages of specialization, honesty with the customer, uniformity of price and quality, accuracy and attractiveness of advertising, and above all hard work, were clearly and forcibly outlined.

Porch Shade Man Spoke
Don Farnsworth was asked to add something to the remarks just made but declined on the pretext of the "Shadiness" of his business. S. C. Cobb likewise escaped by calling attention to the frozen ground, making agricultural machinery an unseasonable topic.

F. F. Lewis was unable to advance any such excuse and so spoke tersely, ending with advice to "first think out your work, and then work out your thought." E. N. Butterfield added a few words on the relation of the employee and employer.

George Buchheit, although called for, took opportunity to remain silent as had Messrs. Farnsworth and Cobb. "Chances for Success in the Retail Business," were next set forth by A. M. Valentine. He spoke more particularly of the connection of telegraphy with the railroad business. He observed that it is not the brilliant men but the plodders who are successful. His observation was borne out by the examples which he cited. Nine-tenths of the great railroad men, he said, come from the ranks of the telegraphers. The qualities which make for success in railroad work are the same as those which make for success in any industry.

General Discussion
Rev. R. M. Vaughan and Attorney T. S. Nolan commented briefly on the last sub-topic. The latter remarked that success lay not in playing a good hand but a poor one well.

Banking and Its Relation to Character was treated of by T. O. Howe. He explained that he seemed to have been assigned the subject chiefly because there was no banker on the club roster who could well be assigned to take the topic. Although Mr. Howe's remarks were clear and pertinent, dealing intimately with the details of the subject, he persisted in assuming a jocose attitude in his treatment of the theme. He strongly set forth the imperative necessity of absolute integrity for the young man who aspires to a banking position.

A. E. Bingham in remarking upon Mr. Howe's address, called attention to the application of the same principles of honesty to any other line of business as to banking. A. M. Valentine and T. S. Nolan added a few jocular words.

Engineering
I. F. Wortendyke took up the theme of engineering and the value of a technical education. Specialization and the application of thought to practice were the two points about which his arguments were centered. His remarks were enlivened by numerous specific illustrations of the theories which he set forth. He warned the young engineer against the "know-it-all" attitude toward men of greater experience. Electrically, he said, offered an amazing wide opportunity at the present time. He urged by all means that the man who could not attend a technical school should take advantage of one of the reliable correspondence schools.

LARGE PARTY RIDE TOWARD JANESVILLE

Winnebago County Officials Are Brought Nearly to City Limits Over the Interurban.

Thirty-five supervisors and county officials of Winnebago county, Illinois, made a trip to within a short distance of Janesville this week and then turned about and went home. A couple of days ago H. H. Clough of the Rockford, Beloit, and Janesville electric road, invited the gentlemen to take a ride on the nearly completed line. The special car took them from Rockford to Beloit and nearly to this city. On returning they stopped for a few hours in Beloit before taking the car for Rockford.

BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS

Frank Pixley, the popular comic of the most approved type. In "The Message of the Violet" one of the two most opposite qualities of humor

The refrain is likewise burdened with poetic sentiment. The words are:

I bring a breath of springtime,
From the woodland where I grew;
There's a kiss upon each petal,
My lips are sweet with dew;
The one who sends this message,

ARTHUR DONALDSON AS THE and sentiment to a pronounced degree. Nothing he has done has brought out this fact so forcibly as the book of the "Prince of Pilsen" the phenomenally successful musical comedy which comes to the Myers Grand for a one night engagement on Wednesday next. The dialogue of the piece is as witty as it can be and yet in the lyrics Mr. Pixley has shown his versatility by indulging in sentiment

"PRINCE OF PILSEN." IN THE some really poetic words. The first verse goes:

The roses' lips are warm and red,
And burning with desire;
Her heart and soul are all aflame
With passion's glowing fire;
But if you touch her have a care,
She's thick with thorns as yet;
And nature when she breathes of love,
Speaks through the violet.

"PRINCE OF PILSEN." Would whisper soft to you;
I love you, love you, love you,
And my heart's true blue.

If You Have, the Statement of This Janesville Man will Interest You

Ever have a "low down" pain in the back?
In the "small" right over the hips?
That's the home of backache,
It's caused by sick kidneys,
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Janesville people endorse this. Read a case of it:

Mr. E. Dillenbeck of 120 Milton avenue, retired farmer, says: "My wife was troubled with kidney complaint for four or five years and complained it pains in the small of the back in the region of the kidneys. The symptoms all indicated that the kidneys were deranged and the doctors who treated her said that those organs caused the disturbance. As she did not get any better we thought Doan's Kidney Pills might give her relief, on procuring them at the People's Drug Store, I had her use the remedy. I did for her all that could be expected. We can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and you can use our names as aying what has been stated above."

JUDGMENT GIVEN FOR A BILL

Court Decides That W. Lempke Shall Pay A. W. Podewell What He Owes for Liquor.

Nearly forty dollars' worth of intoxicating liquors unpaid for was the charge made by A. W. Podewell vs. William Lempke. Testimony was taken in the case before C. W. Reeder yesterday afternoon. His Honor, after hearing the witnesses, adjudged the claim valid, and decreed that the defendant should pay the $38.60 which was said to be the amount of the bill, in addition to the costs of the action. The complainant stated that the liquor had all been purchased in 1900 and earlier, and that the defendant had not traded with him since that year. It is said that Mr. Lempke threatened to bring a counter suit against the plaintiff on a charge of selling him a part of the liquor on Sundays, thereby violating the law. The Milwaukee road was garnished in the action. They requested an adjournment of two weeks which was granted.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR TOURNAMENT

Close Play Expected in Billiard and Pool Contests Which Begin in January.

Now that the year is drawing to a close and the city bowling league tourney is nearly ended, the enthusiasts of the cue are preparing for their innings and with the new-year the match play will begin at Hockett's, and perhaps at Hart's, although the latter has not yet been decided. Brisk competition is looked for in both the pool and billiards series. At one of the billiard halls, the manager estimated that fully twice as much interest was being shown as at the same time last year. At most of the other places the ivory balls have been kept in motion fully as much as in past seasons.

JANESVILLE ACTORS MEET WITH FAVOR

Company Playing "Man in the Iron Mask" Is Popular—Two Bower City Men.

Iowan papers in the cities where Earle Doty and his company have presented "The Man in the Iron Mask," speak in high commendation of the play. Everywhere the company have been cordially received and requested to come again. This indication of the popularity of the attraction is gratifying to Bower City friends of Earle Doty, otherwise Clarence Burdick of this city, and John McElroy, who is with the business end of the company. The last number of the Opera House Reporter, published in Estherville, Ia., displays a cut of Earle Doty on the front page. An idea of what Iowa people think of the attraction may be gained from a few clippings. Pocahontas: "The play was excellent and deserved a great deal better patronage than it received. It was one of the best companies ever in the house."

Dallas Center: "Should Earle Doty give us a return date we could pack the house."

Fort Dodge: "It will be long before the people witness anything equal to the play."

STEADFASTNESS

Standing beside an open grave one morning, many years ago, were two women peering into the open sepulchre with tear-dimmed eyes. The one was an elderly woman, the mother of the only boy she had left, and now he had followed a brother and father to the long home where the gates never swing out, and in her widowhood and double sorrow, she felt that she was indeed bereft. The other was the wife of a summer, drinking to the depths the keening anguish of widowhood, before the bloom of girlhood had faded from her cheeks. A bond of hallowed sympathy united these two hearts and as they turned away from the sacred spot, they felt that the world contained but little that was attractive. The mother said to the daughter: "I have only lived in this country a few years, and I have decided to go back to my own people, come over to the house tomorrow morning, and walk with me a little way on the journey."

The next morning the two women stood on a little eminence overlooking the town and the grave yard where their hopes were buried and the mother said: "Come my child, kiss me goodbye and go back to your father's home, and time will heal your sorrow, and in a few years you will find another husband and a home where you may be happy." But the daughter said: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God shall be my God. Where thou dwellest, I will dwell, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me and more also, if I ought but death part thee and me."

And so the two women, Ruth and Naomi journeyed together and the little story has lived in history for many centuries. It will continue to live while time endures a bright example of steadfastness and unselfish love.

The world admires greatness, and it holds in high regard the men and women whose genius and carefully cultivated talent forge for them a place among the ranks of the famous. It has words of commendation for successful people in every department of endeavor, and points with pride to its captains of industry, and its generals in the field of commerce. It is not forgetful of its heroes and language failed to properly express enthusiasm when Dewey and Funston and Hobson, "came marching home." It is not unkind of misfortune, when it devastates by fire and flood. The great heart of humanity beats in sympathy with Galveston and Martinique and responds with liberal hand in the hour of great calamity. But it is sometimes difficult to recognize and appreciate the common graces of every day experience. Among these common graces, steadfastness stands out in bold relief, not because it is a noisy virtue, for it never wastes time or energy in proclamation from the housetop, but because of its quiet unobtrusive work and intense loyalty. The modest violet that struggles up through the dead grasses and opens its smiling face to the dew drop and morning sunshine does not attract the attention that is given to the lilac, loaded with bloom across the way, but it is filling a mission that only the violet can fill. The steadfastness of a Ruth is modest and unassuming and frequently passes unnoticed, while every tongue proclaims the courage of a Grant or Sherman, in loud acclaim.

Someone has very truthfully said that there is a marked difference between Steadfastness and Stubbornness. Many people pride themselves upon having minds of their own. They are always right in their own estimation, and never willing to yield a point. They are simply mules, going through life on two feet instead of four. The mule possesses some good qualities because usually he is a good kicker and people respect him enough to keep away from him and permit him to exhaust his energies on the atmosphere. It is possible to be a mule without long ears, but the occupation is destitute of either profit or glory. Steadfastness is unlike stubbornness as the violet is unlike the dandelion. The one is modest, satisfied to blossom in the corner, the other with brazen face covers the lawn in a night, and when you annihilate it, it laughs at your effort and says, "good day, I'll see you again tomorrow," and it is usually as good as its word. While Steadfastness is a tender plant it possesses qualities of endurance that are as tenacious of life as life itself. It is not a quality of the head, and is never troubled with questions of philosophy and science. It is the essence of love in the purest and holiest estate, and it throbs with life to every pulsation of the heart. A high order of intellect is not necessary to rare development. An intelligent dog is as steadfast in the love of his master, as is possible for an animal to be. The love and devotion that he expresses is seldom surpassed by human love. He submits to abuse and hardship without question or complaint because of loyal devotion. A faithful dog is an object lesson that many people could study to good advantage. He sometimes represents about all the genuine love there is in a home.

The mother-in-law, in these modern days, is a by-word. If she lives in the home of the new son or daughter, it is usually a case of too much mother-in-law. The amount of affection lavished upon her is not of the steadfast sort. These conditions were doubtless anticipated by the early historian, when the character of Ruth and Naomi was so vividly portrayed. It is true that their hearts were tender and respective because of a common sorrow, but there was nothing to forgive and forget, and so the girl pleaded for close companionship and in language as beautiful as was ever written, swore allegiance to the mother who had given her a husband. It might be well to remember that the mother-in-law is not responsible for her new relationship, and that without her, homes would be exceedingly scarce.

Steadfastness is a grace that should be cultivated and developed, not only in the home but in every department of life. It is a saving and redeeming quality, and covers a multitude of sins. The little child that has caused the mother so much annoyance by disobedience during the day, settles the score at bed time, by a clasp of chubby hands about the neck with a warm kiss on the cheek and the simple sentence, "I love you mama." There is no appeal from this kind of devotion, and as the little lad is tucked away for the night, the mother returns the kiss and turns away with a tear of thankfulness for the steadfast love of the child. In this age of revolution and evolution, when restlessness and discontent are so predominating, the world needs, as much as any other one thing, steadfastness of purpose and steadiness of action. The old landmarks become obliterated and we drift away unconsciously, when we do not deliberately become phantoms chasers. There are some principles which are as eternal as the hills and stability born of steadfastness, is one of them. When its importance is more fully appreciated, common honesty and common sense will be enthroned while hobbies and fads will become a memory of the past.

The president insat upon a good strong navy and it is to be hoped he will get it. Roosevelt knows what he is after. Why, just before the Spanish war he was assistant secretary of the navy and but for his foresight of supplying the men-of-war with powder and shell for practice we never could have defeated those Spaniards so easily.

PRESS COMMENT

St. Paul Globe: The wonder grows how Apostle Smoot came to eminence in Utah with only one wife to his credit.

New York World: When 35 cents or less will make a silver dollar, is it no wonder that counterfeiting is common.

Detroit Free Press: The W. C. T. U. will doubtless insist that the increased drunkenness in the army is mere spite-work.

Washington Post: Vermont has decided that it will not abolish capital punishment. It will be retained on the statutes and enforced in much the same manner as the New England prohibition laws are.

Boston Herald: Another objection to the rule which removes women clerks from the postal service when they get married is the fact that a great many wives support their husbands for love, or for the privilege of being abused by them.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Miss Helen Gould has bought an automobile. If she should run down a pedestrian the spontaneous verdict would be "accidentally killed," for the fair Helen has established her reputation for humanity and kindness of heart.

Louisville Commercial: Old Watchdog of the Treasury Cannon seems to have a large majority assured him in his race for the speakership. There would be many willing to see Cannon shot into the presidency in order to get him off the appropriations committee.

TEACHERS HOLD LARGE MEETING

INTERESTING SESSION OF ROCK COUNTY ASSOCIATION

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL TODAY

Leading Educators of the State Take Part in the Excellent Program Given.

When the Rock County Teachers' association opened its annual convention at the Janesville High school this morning, the large assembly room was half filled with a company of intelligent men and women who had gathered together to discuss the problems which confront them as teachers. The total attendance at the convention today has been between three and four hundred.

Session Opened—This morning was devoted to a general session, beginning at 9:30 o'clock with Principal R. E. Loveland, of Clinton, president of the association, in the chair. The program opened with a calliotheic drill and songs by the children of the second grade of the Douglas school under the leadership of Miss Smith, the teacher, and Mrs. Georgia Hyde, musical instructor of the Janesville city schools.

A Logical Address—After a few announcements by President Loveland, the first address of the morning was given on the subject of "Agricultural Education" by Supt. E. W. Walker of the school for the deaf at Delavan. Mr. Walker enlivened his address with stories and incidents illustrating various points which he made. Mr. Walker's plea was for a greater interest in agricultural instruction in the rural schools. The schools of today are not as well calculated to inspire boys to become farmers as they were fifty years ago. Now the boy who completes the course in the rural school has some other aim than farming. Mr. Walker felt that the establishment of agricultural schools in the several counties is absolutely necessary if Wisconsin is to maintain its reputation as an agricultural and dairy state. Denmark has twenty-eight agricultural colleges while Wisconsin, four times as large, has but one. To this condition may be traced the fact that the name of producing the best butter has been wrested from Wisconsin by Denmark.

Duty of Teachers—Mr. Walker stated that much may be done in the line of agricultural education in the rural schools if the teachers realize its importance and take up the work with enthusiasm. The district school can never expect to make expert farmers but it can give the boy an impulse to do something better than his father has done. He may be taught the importance of sensible feeding of stock and how profits depend upon it. Intelligent and enthusiastic teaching in the rural schools and the establishment of county agricultural schools will send the boy back to the farm with the knowledge that he can put something besides muscle into his work.

The State Graded School Movement was next on the program and it was entered into exhaustively, there being three speakers. Inspector F. M. Jack, of Madison, traced the history of the movement, giving some valuable statistics and stating the vital points of the law. He summarized the results to be secured by the movement as better teaching forces, definite course of study, economy in administration and a definite relation to the state school system with the advantage of being visited by the state inspector.

Results in Orfordville—Principal Rudolph Karges of Orfordville, confined his treatment of the subject to the difference which had been made in his school. He told how the desire to secure the annual state aid of $300 which seemed like getting something for nothing had induced $3,000 in securing better equipment and a needed addition to the building. The work had been systematized, the teachers have the authority of the state behind them and the school has been benefited by the criticisms of the state inspection.

Free Transportation—Miss Mary Holt spoke of the value of free transportation for the country children to the graded school, giving them the advantages of the better schools and of meeting other children and also securing punctual attendance and serving to arouse a greater interest among the parents.

Calliotheic and Drills—The children of the sixth grade of the Jefferson school, Miss Cora Spear, teacher, then gave a series of calliotheic and three very pretty songs, Mrs. Hyde directing them.

What Are Fads?—The final number on this morning's program was an address on "Fads" by Supt. A. J. Hutton of the State School for the Blind. For several minutes Mr. Hutton kept his audience laughing over his humorous remarks on the subject. He asked who was to judge what fads are, the men running them or their victims. He enumerated several so-called fads and closed his address in an entertaining manner by advocating the wise introduction of manual training, domestic science, agriculture, physical culture and other comparatively new departments into schools even if some of the older studies had to be dropped.

Afternoon Session—Excellent music by the high school orchestra opened the afternoon session, the orchestra being followed by a song pretty sung by Mary Ludden, a pupil in the sixth grade of the Lincoln school.

Sectional Meetings—After music the teachers attended the sectional meeting in which they were particularly interested. The high school section was led by Principal W. A. Clark and those on the program were Supt. H. C. Buell, of Janesville; Principal W. B. Collins, of Sharon; Principal H. F. Kling, of Evansville; Principal H. R. Hamilton, of Milton; W. F. Lusk, Madison; Prin-

Grammar Section—Miss Ada L. Brandt of this city led the Grammar section, being assisted in the program by Mrs. Hyde and Miss Ethel Fisher of this city, Miss Laura Horstman and Miss Margaret Welchman, Beloit and Miss Margaret Young-clause, Emerald Grove.

For Little People—The primary section was an especially interesting place. Miss Lida B. Earhart, of Whitewater, being the leader. Those who participated in the program were Miss Julia Dutton, Edgerton; Miss Grace Potter, Whitewater; Miss Luella Hill, Janesville; Miss Hannah Larson, Beloit, and Miss Earhart.

Annual Business Meeting—After the sectional meeting another general session was opened with music by the Janesville High school orchestra. The annual business meeting followed and the meeting concluded with talks on the Past, Present and Future of the schools by County Superintendents William Ross, and David Thorne and County Superintendents Charles Hemingway and O. D. Antisdel.

NO CARS SUNDAY—On account of changing the power service there will be no cars run over the lines of the Janesville street railway on Sunday.

DON'T KNOW HOW IT HAPPENED

HERMAN KREB'S NARROW ESCAPE AT RAILWAY CROSSING.

WAGON STRUCK BY ENGINE

Kreb and His Companion Escaped, Without Any Injury or Damage.

Herman Krebs, a farmer living in the town of La Prairie, while driving home Thursday night in a lumber wagon with a neighbor for a companion, was hit by the 5:10 train on the Janesville and Southeastern road near the McLeellan farm. The wagon was smashed and Krebs and his companion thrown over the road fence into a field beyond a few scratches and bruises were not hurt.

The wagon road at this point crossed the railroad track diagonally and a view of the track can be had for a long distance each way. There is a little down grade along the railroad track at this point and the passenger trains run there about as fast as the engine can turn a wheel.

Krebs drove onto the track a short distance ahead of the rapidly approaching train and before he could get over the pilot of the engine struck the outfit just at the front end of the wagon box. The shock broke the wagon loose from the horses who went up the road on a run and Krebs and his companion sailed off over the fence into the field, but did not sustain any serious injuries.

The train was stopped as soon as possible and backed up to where the accident occurred. When it was found that the men were not hurt the train proceeded on its way to Chicago.

The man riding with Krebs in the wagon was named Joseph Lowie and informed the conductor of the train that his home was in Minneapolis and that he and Krebs were going to Shoplex.

Engineer McDonald stated that Krebs drove onto the track not over two hundred feet ahead of him. He saw the two horses as they stepped onto the track and put on the air brake and started the whistle. He was running at about 45 miles an hour and struck the wagon almost before he had time to make a move. The train went about five hundred feet after hitting the wagon before he brought it to a standstill. When he got back to where Krebs and Lowie were, they were walking around looking for their team which had gone up the road. They were not hurt and Lowie was kicking about losing his cap which Engineer McDonald found lying along the track. At the time of the accident the headlight was burning and the bell ringing. The engineer had sounded the whistle for the road crossing some distance back at the whistling post. The thing that puzzled the train crew was how Krebs and Lowie ever escaped being killed.

MERRY SOCIAL FOR BAPTIST JUNIORS

Eighty Children Play Games, Enjoy a Program and Partake of Light Refreshments.

Eighty happy children spent last evening merrily in the parlors of the Baptist church, the occasion being a social given for the Junior Endeavor society. Miss Clara Shurtliff, leader of the Juniors, and Miss Irene Van Vranken had charge of the party and saw that everyone had a good time and that no minute was allowed to go to waste.

The early part of the evening was devoted to the amusing pastime of guessing conundrums and to romping games into the spirit of which the children entered heartily, the room ringing with merry voices and shouts of laughter.

The games were followed by an enjoyable program which opened with a well rendered piano solo by May Huntress. A recitation, "The Dog Under the Wagon," was prettily given by Myrtle Osgood and Marguerite Palmer sang "Only Me" very sweetly. Carrie May Palmer played a piano selection nicely and Beth MacDonald recited "1492" in a pleasing manner. Miss Clara Shurtliff delighted the children by reciting "Deacon Jones' Grievance," as the concluding number on the program, after which light refreshments, consisting of cocoa and minced ham sandwiches were served.

IN THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW

Robert Home—Word was received today that Robert Home of Milton, who for the last three years has been at Santa Barbara, Cal., for his health, died at that place this week. He was about forty-five years of age and had been in poor health for some time. His body is now on its way to Milton for burial.

Mrs. Clarence Hield—Mrs. Clarence Hield, for many years a resident of this city, died at her home in Armada, Cal., last Saturday, the sad news having been brought to this city in a letter from the bereaved husband to his brother, Norman Hield. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ador, formerly of this city, and had resided in this city practically all her life until about six years ago when her husband took her to California in the hope of benefiting her health. She was about forty years old and leaves her aged father, who resided with her, a husband, two sons and one daughter. There are many friends in Janesville who will be pained to hear of her death.

David Langstaff—Mrs. E. R. O'Neill of this city received word today of the death of her father, David Langstaff, which occurred at his home in Marysville, O., Oct. 23. Deceased, had he lived until the 11th day of next month would have been 90 years of age. He was born in Jersey City, N. J., January 11, 1814.

Rev. Wittsee of the Marysville M. E. church preached a touching and appropriate sermon from the text: "And the good man died and was carried by angels to Abraham's bosom." Mr. Langstaff was one of the oldest members of the church, having served as trustee for more than fifty years. He was a regular attendant at Sabbath services up to a week before his death. The funeral was largely attended and tributes of flowers were paid to the memory of the grand old man of Marysville.

The message of his death was delayed until too late for relatives at a distance to attend. Four children are left to mourn the loss of a loving father, they being Mrs. E. R. O'Neill of this city, Mrs. R. D. Perritt of Chirook, Mont., Mrs. G. K. Norris and James C. Langstaff, of Marysville, O.

Mrs. Langstaff and five children preceded the husband and father to the other world years ago.

M. M. Fardy—The funeral of the late M. M. Fardy will be held from St. Patrick's church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

He had a large tin pan and part of a deer leg attached to his tail and when caught by a lady near the Myers house corner was about dead with fright. This would be a good case for the humane society to look up and see if the persons who did the act could not be punished as they deserve.

COLLEGE SENIORS MUST STAY HOME

Eloft Faculty Decides That Vacation Shall Not Be Spent Away from the City.

In the past one of the features of the last year at Beloit college has been the "senior vacation." Just after the final vacation and before commencement week the graduating class has been allowed a week in which to take the train, visit friends, or go to the lake and spend several days together in which there is no thought of books. This year's class will not be allowed that privilege. The faculty has decided that adverse criticism of the college has resulted from the freedom of the class during the vacation and the danger will hereafter be eliminated by allowing the vacation to be spent in Beloit. The ruling has been far from enthusiastically received by the students, but the faculty are in no doubt as to the wisdom of the step.

SIX BIG STORES COMBINED.

OUR large double front 3 floors and basement building gives us space occupied by any six ordinary stores. Every floor chock full of seasonable Holiday Goods: Crockery, Glassware, Toys, Furniture, House-keeping Articles. The magnitude of this stock is in itself an immense drawing card.

The First Floor of our Crockery and Glass Department.

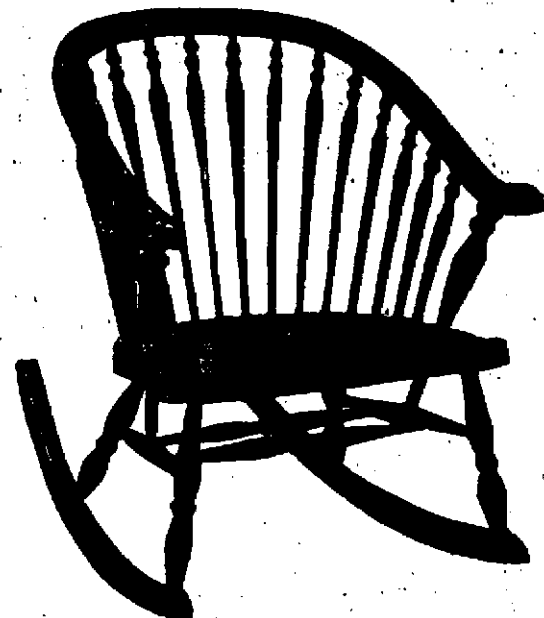

THE fact is this department is the largest in Southern Wisconsin. All the beautiful creations both imported and domestic in Crockery are here in profusion. Those dainty single pieces—and gorgeous sets both China and Glass—not merely a few but enough almost to bewilder you. Our selections are many of them made personally in the East. Our importation from Europe are made direct, therefore selections are away from the usual, we do not confine our purchases to the limits of the jobbers and factories of this country.

Three Floors of Furniture

The usual stock of standard Furniture articles such as: Bed Room Sets, Dining Sets, Couches, Hall Pieces, Tables, Chairs, etc., is increased in variety and extent for the Holiday trade. There are full as many gifts chosen from the sensible, and useful lines as almost any. That is why our stock appeals so strongly. It is easy to price appropriate gifts here. In our Special Chair Department; and we have made it special through a very large purchase of Rockers of many styles and finishes—the temptation to buy will be strong.

Rockers of Comfort

To suit the tastes of the many: Weathered Oak, Fumed Oak, Fleupot Oak, Golden Oak, Autways Oak, Mahogany. BE WISE—Last year you decided to commence early on Christmas shopping—less than three weeks left.
